

Site Review Notes

Strong Points

- Overall, the design of the site is very cohesive. The typography, colors, hierarchy, and layout are consistent across sections.
- The navigation bar is clear and divides the content well so the user can easily access a specific topic of interest.
- The home page makes the topic of the site immediately clear through displaying her name, title, and brief introduction.

Areas for Improvement

- You may have not gotten the chance to adjust this yet, but the site is currently not responsive. Adjustments to font size will likely fix most of the layout issues on the pages. Since the font is large on these smaller screens, the line width is a bit short, so I would try to extend this to enhance readability. Another area to pay attention to is the navigation bar, which gets squished on smaller screens.
- I like that you kept the design simple across the pages, but it would be interesting to see some more color on the home page. I like the deep red color you used for the navigation bar and underlining the headers, so maybe you can find a way to incorporate that on the home page? Or maybe taking a similar approach to the bright colored layered typography image of her last name you have on the Legacy page.